Council Provisionally Declared Itself
for Rice-Howard Property

UNION BARBERS GET REBUKE

Parks Committee Make Elaborate Report on Securing of Park Accommodation in City

By the provisional passing by the city council last evening of the bylaw for the purchase of the Rice-Howard property for $33,000 for a public library site, it devolves on the people of Edmonton to say whether the choice of the library board is acceptable or not.

Early in the proceedings of the asking a petition was read signed by about one hundred influential citizens asking that the decision of the council at a previous meeting be withdrawn and that the question be again opened for discussion. On the library petition being read, Ald. Hyndman said that he found a great deal of opposition to the action of the council in accepting the recommendation of the library board. The responsibility did not rest so much with the city council. The city solicitor had said that in his opinion the matter of choosing a site was entirely in the hands of the library board. He wished to draw the attention of the council to the difficulty of carrying the proposed bylaw as no fewer than four leading newspapers were opposed to the site chosen. He did not express his personal opinion on the matter.

City Solicitor Bowen gave it as his opinion that it lay with the board to select a site but that there was no way to force the city to supply the money. K. W. MacKenzie, in placing the position of the board before the council, said that there was no desire to go counter to the wishes of the people. He did not think the board had power in its own hands but that the body paying should have something to say as to what it was buying. He was informed by the school board that it was unwilling to dispose of the high school site at present.

"The opportunity is now at hand to secure a library site," said Mr. MacKenzie, "but the option expires tonight. We don't feel that any proposition would justify us in making a different recommendation to the council."

"Only one proposition would tempt the board to make a change in its decision, that of the Purdy property on the northwest corner of First street, which can be secured for $32,500. In the Rice-Howard property there is a six-foot reserve for lane. Further the triangle in the east end, where the Columbia movie was, could be secured for $15,000. This was thought out of the question."

In conclusion Mr. MacKenzie said the responsibility must lie with the council and he was willing to leave the matter there.

"B. Lake, as circulator of the petition, said that had he the time he would have secured scores of names of as equally prominent men as those on the petition. Ninety per cent. of the men giving signatures had spoken of the high school site. His experience in viewing library sites in other cities was that Carnegie money was not available for the location of a library in an undesirable site. Carnegie's object was to educate along lines other than book learning."

Ald. Lundy, as a member of the board, said the library should be as easily accessible to people as possible. He was sure that the reasons contra and for the site were sufficient to have the option taken up. He advocated the bylaw giving to the people and giving them a chance to accept or turn it down. It was a question whether the library was wanted now or two or three years from now.

Ross Palmer endorsed the remarks of Chairman MacKenzie, of the board and in reply to Mr. Lake's inquiry said that there was no restriction placed by Mr. Carnegie as to whether the site should be suitable or not.

The petition was finally placed on the table for a week. Later the bylaw to purchase the Rice-Howard property for $33,000 as called for by the

FROM 15 TO 30 MAJORITY

Over the Unionists, Leaving Nationalists Altogether Out of the Calculation

THAT IS NOW THE FORECAST

With but 71 Seats to be Filled—Asquith and Haldane Re-elected—Not Unionist Gain 97

London, Jan. 26.—Premier Asquith, for the East Division of Fife, and Richard B. Haldane for Haddingtonshire, were re-elected. The Prime Minister returns to Parliament with a substantial increase of 615 over his former majority. The Secretary of State for War must be satisfied with a majority less by 435 than that obtained in 1906. The elections to parliament of 18 Liberals, 17 Unionists, 2 Nationalists and 1 Laborite, with one seat for Sutherlandshire still to be heard from, make the thirty-seventh result less over from yesterday's balancing. Out of these seats Unionist gained 5 and Liberals 2.

With but 71 seats remaining to complete the membership of the House of Commons, the parties stand thus: Government Coalition—Liberals 231, Irish Nationalists 74, Laborites 35. Opposition—Unionists 255. The election prophets calculate that the remaining seats will be so divided so as to give the Liberals and Laborites combined a majority anywhere from 15 to 35 over the Unionists leaving the Nationalists out of the calculation. The Unionist gains to date are 216, Liberals 18, and Laborites 1.

An Earlier Despatch.

London, January 26.—Thirty results out of thirty-nine left over from yesterday's elections to parliament give the Unionists four gains and the Liberals two. The state of the parties at 1.30 p.m. today was:

Government Coalition—Liberals 226, Irish Nationalists 74, Laborites 37. Opposition—Unionists 253.

The election will continue throughout the week with the chances of the Liberals obtaining a majority or of the Unionists securing enough seats to render them independent of the Laborites and Nationalists have now disappeared and it becomes a most interesting question as to how the Liberal government is going to meet the difficult task before it. The air is full of suggestions of compromise, but nothing is likely to be decided until the prime minister calls a meeting of the cabinet.

Various measures are expected to be promoted in the King's speech, including Welsh disestablishment, employment insurance and the veto of the House of Lords. The veto question will be the first to be taken up.

PARIS FLOOD GROWS WORSE

No Hope of High Water Mark Being Reached Before Tomorrow
Morning

COUNTRY IN STORM'S GRIP

Rain, Snow and Hail Falling Everywhere
—Shipping Stormbound and General Consternation Prevailing

Paris, Jan. 26.—The flood situation grows worse hourly at Point Royal. This morning the raging torrents of the Seine had reached a height of 27 feet, 8 inches above low water mark, and were rising at a rate of nearly an inch an hour against an hourly rise of less than half an inch yesterday. Although the river Marne was reported stationary, at Preteux, to the east of Paris, the Rivers Navigation Department declares that the volume of water rushing down from the Yonne and other affluents of the Seine above leaves no hope that high water mark will be reached before tomorrow morning, when the flood is expected to reach a maximum of 31 feet or a height greater than that of the disastrous flood of 1862. At the same time the department admits confidentially that it is impossible to predict anything with accuracy, as the whole of France is still in the grip of an unprecedented storm. Rain, snow and hail are falling everywhere, the coasts are stormbound, ships are fleeing to harbors for refuge. A blinding snowstorm raged in Paris today, which, coupled with the bitter cold, added to the general consternation, suffering and misery of the poor and homeless. In the face of a national disaster, France is giving a fine exhibition of pluck and solidarity. Premier Briand estimates the loss at $200,000,000.

after the address in reply to the King's speech is disposed of. According to a rumor from a reliable source tonight Premier Asquith's present idea is only to propose that the House of Lords be deprived of the power of veto in finance bills, but it is practically certain that such a restricted measure will not satisfy the Nationalists. It is likely there will be a split in the Liberal ranks. There is a resurrection of rumors in the city that unless Mr. Asquith is assured of a majority independent of the Irish, he will decline to reconsider the position of his government. It is hinted that a coalition ministry, with Lord Rosebery as premier, might possibly be formed to carry on purely administrative work, while the country gets time to digest problems of tariff reform and cabinet autocracy. Speaking in East Fife, Mr. Asquith laughed at the idea that the present election was the death struggle for free trade. The overwhelming pronouncement of the great industrial districts had been in favor of the maintenance of the present fiscal system.

Two Liberal Gains.

Launceston (Patrick Division)—Balfour, Lib., 10,903; MacDonachie, Unionist, 9,522. This constituency went Unionist in 1906 in a three-cornered contest, a Labor candidate being in the field.

Launceston (Govan Division)—Hunter, Liberal, 6,558; Duncan, Un., 5,128; Brownlie, Lib., 3,543. This constituency went Unionist in 1906 in a three-cornered contest, a Labor candidate being in the field.

Launceston (N. W. Division)—Pringle, Lib., 8,422; Thompson, Un., 7,538; Small, Labor, 1,718. Liberal gain.

Stirling Burghs—Ponsonby, Lib., 4,441; Patrick, Unionist, 2,197; Yorkshire (Morley Division)—France, Lib., 8,026; Charlesworth, Un., 3,395; Smith, Lab., 2,191.

Yorkshire (Normanton Division)—Hall, Lab., 9,150; Bartlett, Unionist, 3,540.

REPRESENTED OUR PROVINCE

Hon. P. E. Lessard While in Ottawa was Delegate to Conservation
Congress

ALL PROVINCES REPRESENTED

Committees Struck to Investigate National Resources and Report to Second
Convention in June

With a larger grasp of the wonderful resources of the Dominion of Canada, and a stronger faith in the future of this great country, Hon. P. E. Lessard, M.P.P., returned home last night from Ottawa, where for four days he has been in attendance on the National Conservation Congress, assembled under the direction of Hon. Clifford Sifton, ex-minister of the Interior.

"I attended the conference on behalf of the Premier and Dr. Tory, who were unable to be present," said Mr. Lessard to The Capital this morning. "Thirty-five delegates were invited from all the provinces of the Dominion, and thirty-four were in attendance, which goes to show how successful the convention was. Alberta had the missing delegate, although Hon. W. A. Buchanan was there for the opening proceedings."

Speaking of the work of the convention, Mr. Lessard said that a great deal was crowded into the four days. Hon. Clifford Sifton made a speech which should receive wide publicity, as it drew the attention of Canadians to many important matters. Addresses were given by accepted authorities on the mineral, timber, water, fishery, agricultural and other resources of Canada. It was shown what a national asset they were, and how they should be conserved.

Mr. Lessard was particularly interested in the address of Hon. Adam Beck of Ontario on the development of electricity energy by water power. He felt that the future would see the great water power of Alberta utilized for purposes of industry.

"The practical result of the congress," said Mr. Lessard, "was a striking of committees empowering each to make a searching investigation into the resources of the country in the way of minerals, fisheries, water and water power, etc. The chairman of each committee was commissioned to spare no time or expense in securing the information he desired. The use of the committees it was expected the Dominion would make a grant of $50,000. Premier Rutherford has been made a member of two of these committees."

Mr. Lessard said that the first report of the committees will be received at a meeting called for in Montreal during the first week in June.

IMMIGRATION MUST FLOW NOW

Chas. S. Hotchkiss, of Claresholm,
Placed in Charge of Alberta's
Immigration Policy

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, announced to the press this morning the appointment of Chas. S. Hotchkiss of Claresholm, as immigration commissioner for the province of Alberta. Mr. Hotchkiss will arrive in Edmonton on Monday and will carry into effect the immigration policy of the provincial government as outlined in The Capital several weeks ago. The appointment is understood to be good for one year.

Mr. Hotchkiss is considered an excellent man for the position. He is a man of great energy and ability, a good organizer and a hard worker. He has had eight years' experience in newspaper work and is an old railroad. He did excellent work last year when acting for the government in enforcing the Manitoba Grain Act during the grain blockade.

At the present time Mr. Hotchkiss is license inspector of the Claresholm district. On his resigning the position of the work of license inspector will be administered from the Attorney-General's Department.

KNOWN DEAD NOW FORTY

Divers Continue Their Work at Webbwood—Five More Bodies
Recovered and Three Located

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Five more bodies were recovered from the Webbwood, Ont., wreck yesterday. Of these, two had been missing, and three were additions to the list of dead, bringing it up to forty. The bodies taken from the river today were those of Frank Morrison, said to be going from Frankham to Ekoba, Ont., (no such place is known as Frankham); Dr. McLellan, veterinary surgeon, Sudbury, Ont.; Chas. Carey, airplane inspector, Montreal, C.P.R.; C. J. Pucent, bound from Ottawa for Rhineland, Wis.; Wm. Lavery, fireman, North Bay; One of the unidentified bodies was identified as that of J. Henault of St. Gabriel de Brandon.

The diver says he found three more bodies yesterday but could not extricate them.

SCENIC ROUTE FOR EDMONTON

Both Banks of Saskatchewan to be Made Into Beautiful Driveway

GOVERNMENT WILL ASSIST

Government House Site Incorporated Into Beauty Scheme—Property Soon to be Secured

A beautiful driveway along both the north and south banks of the Saskatchewan river is something that the imagination has drawn for nearly every Edmonton and Strathcona citizen.

Assurance has been given by the provincial government on several occasions that assistance would be given for the construction of such a driveway. The way matters are shaping now it looks as though action on the matter would be taken shortly. At last night's council meeting Ald. Lundy announced that the matter has again been taken up with the government by the parks committee and as a result it is expected that the property for the driveway will all be secured before the end of this year. The intention is to have the scenic route extend on both sides of the river as far as the Clover Bar bridge and four miles or so up the river. A beginning will be made on the work of construction this year and will be further carried on from year to year.

In this connection the attention of The Capital has been drawn to the Government House site, for which the government is now negotiating. This will in all probability be the view property of Glenora subdivision just beyond the Groat Estate. The estimates before the house at this session are expected to make provision for the purchase of this property, some 18 acres in all.

With the property secured steps will be taken, so The Capital is informed, to clear off the brush and to convert the site into a park-like appearance. The improvement idea will also extend up the ravine.

Altogether the scheme for driveways along the river banks is a most pretentious one and will mean much for the beautifying of greater Edmonton.

MAY POSTPONE FAIR

Grounds will not be Ready till Middle of August

It is almost certain that the Edmonton Exhibition will be held at a later date than usual this year, as the grounds and buildings will hardly be in shape for a July fair. The middle of August will probably be selected. Nothing definite will be done in the matter of selecting dates until the annual convention of the Association of Fairs and Exhibitions, which is to be held in this city, February 2nd and 3rd.

Minister of Agriculture will Investigate the Cause of Farm Products Being so High

Toronto, Jan. 26.—Following in the footsteps of Citizens' and Labor Unions of the United States, a crusade was started last night by the Toronto Labor Union against the retail dealers. "We, the undersigned, pledge ourselves to refrain from eating meat (flesh) for a period of thirty days or until the outrageous retail price of meat has been reduced." The foregoing pledge was nailed up to a notice board in the Labor Temple last night. Many names had been appended. There are 18,000 union men in Toronto, and if they and their families become vegetarians there will probably be 60,000 vegetarians in labor circles alone.

Mr. Fisher to Investigate.
Ottawa, Jan. 26.—The Minister of Agriculture is having an investigation by officials of his department into the abnormal increase in the cost to the consumer of various farm products and other commodities relating thereto during the past few years. As intimated in Hon. Mr. Fisher's speech before the Canadian Club on Saturday last, the price of bacon, bread, meat, eggs and other staple household commodities, the product of the farm, are now considerably higher than they were some years ago, and are comparatively dearer in Canada than in Great Britain. It does not appear that the farmer is getting any considerable share of the enhanced prices, (whether the increased cost of living is due to the influence of any combine or not, or whether the middlemen are getting an undue portion, is a matter for future investigation.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1910.

There are two outstanding facts apparent from the British election results. The great centers of industry do not want protection and even the London Times says it is impossible just now. The second is that the House of Lords has a strong hold on the country and it will be several generations before it is abolished. The violent language used by Lloyd-George in referring to the Upper Chamber couldn't possibly help the onslaught upon it. As was pointed out on this page several weeks ago, the cause which he was championing could not help, being injured by his methods of advocacy. Even in this country a man who spoke of the eldest son of a peer as the "first of the litter" would be set down as unworthy of a high official position. What the effect would be in an English country is easily imagined.

New Westminster is about to apply for permission to drop "New" from its name. What's the use? If the legislature does grant the request, it will only cause all kinds of inconvenience. What if New York made a similar proposal?

Hereafter on Pennsylvania railway trains, porters are to be prohibited from thrusting their attentions on passengers about to reach their destination. If a man wants his clothes brushed or his shoes shined, he may make the request and give what he likes for this service or for any other that he has received during the trip. But the practice of forcing the passenger to stand and go through the polishing up operation is a piece of impudence and the Pennsylvania's action may well be imitated by other corporations.

Those who can enjoy a "icket match are still very much interested in the British elections. But those to whom one long-drawn-out innings is sufficient stopped reading the news of the polling about Tuesday of last week. The large majority of the people on this continent belong to the latter class. They can't stand too long a period of suspense between the cheers that greet the players as they take the field and those which follow the victors to the dressing-rooms.

In the course of the Budget debate at Ottawa, Hon. Mr. Paterson made a statement, which should not be lost sight of. The Globe's report reads: "He denied that it was ever promised that the Liberal party, if returned to power, would adopt free trade as it was known in England. What Sir Wilfrid Laurier did promise was that the tariff would be founded on the necessities of the revenue, and that the governing principle should not be protection. That pledge had also been fulfilled."

This is hardly borne out by the debates which have taken place on tariff questions either in the house or on the platform. It has been stated over and over again that Canada has to keep up its tariff because of that of the United States. If revenue were all that was to be considered, why should certain articles be admitted free and others be heavily taxed? The question raised by Mr. Paterson is one that might profitably be pursued at some length. It is quoted here, however, principally in order that when fiscal discussions arise in the future, readers should examine the utterances of government supporters in the light of it.

The Agricultural College and the University

Address on Important Problem now Facing the Province
by Dr. Tory, President of the University of Alberta

At last week's U.F.A. convention the following address was delivered by President Tory of the University of Alberta:

Mr. President and Gentlemen:
It gives me special pleasure to respond to the call of your executive committee to address your convention on the subject of "Agricultural Education in the Province of Alberta." I am pleased to speak to you because the subject is one of vast importance to the province and one in which as an educator I am deeply interested. Any person who pretends to follow recent movements in education knows that within the last few years the science of agriculture, because of the economic problems involved, has forced itself upon the attention of educationalists the world over. So much is this the case that almost all the great educational institutions of the English-speaking world have found for it a place on their course of study.

But, Mr. President, may I preface my remarks by saying a few words about the University as an institution. Perhaps there is no word in our language more generally misunderstood than this word. There is a hazy notion in the minds of many people that the University is a sort of necessary evil inflicted upon the state for the benefit of the sons of the rich and is one of all relation to the practical problems of life. As a matter of fact, nothing could be farther from the truth. They are most practical institutions. Otherwise how would you account for the fact that they have become a part of the life of every civilized community?

Two causes have produced them. The first of these is found in the desire of the human mind to know, that restless instinct which asks the question why and then strives to get an answer. Having found an answer it demands a place to give its knowledge to the world. But the second and by far the greater reason is the fact that the universities have been found necessary to the proper solution of the practical problems of life. Their usefulness in this direction has given them the place in our modern life.

The Use of Universities.

Perhaps you will permit me to rapidly sketch the rise of these institutions. They began their career in the modern world at a time when the problems which most vexed the human mind were those of religion. Where the great mass of religious opinion became so complicated as to require special interpretation, teaching bodies arose whose chief aim was to give instruction in matters relating to theology.

Almost side by side with the growth of knowledge which gave interest to the religious side of the university, the progress of civilization and the development of systems of law made necessary the training of expert men to give form and meaning to these systems. Hence arose the schools of law, side by side with those of theology. Similarly and almost at the same time the schools of medicine began to make their appearance in connection with the universities. Today outside the British Islands nearly all the great schools of medicine are connected with the universities.

The same is true of the schools of applied science. The discoveries of the nineteenth century in science, the practical application of mathematics, physics and chemistry, the discovery of the new sources of power in steam and later in electricity, the application of all these to the problems of engineering, made the schools of applied science almost at once institutions of university grade. They almost at once became absorbed in the universities or around them new universities grew up. Nearly all these great schools are now university institutions.

The last of the great technical sciences to receive recognition was the science of agriculture. On this continent, the action of Mr. Morrill in getting congress to set aside a portion of the public lands in each state for the support of an "agricultural college" was the first great step looking to the recognition of agriculture as a teaching subject.

price of fifteen tons of nuts would be $60,000. Talk about a show of true sporting blood! Can you beat the above?

Difficulties Encountered.

At first, just as in the case of medicine and law, the disposition was to let them grow up by themselves. At that time the public mind in many cases was not ready to receive these colleges at all. The old universities with fixed traditions were not easily persuaded to make a place for an agricultural faculty. In many places the strongest objections came from the farmers themselves; they could not be persuaded that agricultural colleges could teach them anything worth knowing. I well remember myself the attitude of mind of many of the farmers in the part of the country where I spent my boyhood. They laughed at the idea of a college professor teaching them how to farm. In the meantime while the farms were being slowly exhausted, a growing body of knowledge, valuable to the farmer, was being accumulated and taught. Intellectual men soon began to see the economic value of such teaching at the universities, particularly the new state universities began to teach agricultural subjects.

I might take two great outstanding examples of the two methods of dealing with the question of agricultural teaching.

The Experience of Two States.

In Iowa the college of agriculture grew up separate from the university. Today the state is supporting two great institutions, each duplicating the work of the other to a considerable extent, at an enormous cost to the state. The worst feature of the separation, however, is that the two institutions were not allowed to play football together. The presidents of the two institutions, though friends themselves, could not control the situation. Last year, to avoid a continuance of the scandal, the legislature passed an act placing the two into a common board of management in the hope that this state of affairs might be ended. The same rivalry has gone on in other states, so that in many places the problem of bringing them together is now being faced. On the other hand Wisconsin started with the Agricultural College a part of the university. Upon the one institution the whole interest of the state was concentrated. What was the result? The university of Wisconsin has become the leader in university matters in the United States. Harvard men speak of her as the Harvard of the west. No class rivalries have arisen. The farmer, the lawyer, the minister, have all been educated together with great benefit to the whole social system of the state. Today the state stands as a unit in support of the institution, and none take greater interest than the farmers in the growth and development of the university. They know it belongs to them.

The Demand for Agricultural Teaching.

But, Mr. President, there is another reason why I stand for union, apart from those mentioned in discussing these two cases. The reason is an educational one. Within the last fifteen years, the tide of educational opinion on this continent and in England has been setting in the direction of education for rural life. A constantly increasing demand for agricultural teaching in our public and high schools has been made. Dr. Robertson, late of Macdonald College has been the great exponent of this side of this conception. In the United States universities like Cornell and Wisconsin, both of which have agricultural colleges, have been the leaders. During this time our schemes of elementary and secondary education have been going into the melting pot. Some states have already undertaken to solve the problem. The very first difficulty which confronts them is one of teachers. The elementary school teachers have been trained in the High Schools, the High School teachers in the universities. How is agriculture to take its place in the lower schools unless it is taught in the University? One of the great state superintendents of education on this continent in a letter to me once said that the greatest difficulty is to get trained teachers, and that until the science masters are trained in agriculture success is impossible. In that particular state the university and the agricultural colleges are separate. To meet the demand it will be necessary to give agricultural courses in the University. When the two are together the difficulty disappears.

In Alberta

Gentlemen, our own province is at the beginning of things educationally. We now have it within our reach to build a tradition is established to so coordinate our work that the university can send out a constant stream of influence down to the most elementary school in the province. We can stand in the front rank in these matters and become leaders and not followers of our will. I am sure you do not wish us to begin where our fathers began fifty years ago, and have all the experience of these years go for nothing. Dr. Robertson gives as his chief reason for favoring union the educational argument which I have advanced.

The scheme of university education which we have drawn up was submitted to one of the leading men in the great University of Wisconsin. I do not know the gentleman personally nor did I submit the question to him. In a written criticism he makes the statement that if Alberta carries out this plan, she would have one of the most progressive institutions on the continent of America. The senate have had before them the most explicit information on every subject on which they have reached a decision. It is gratifying to them as it is to me to know that their course is commended by the most expert judgment.

The Burden of Testimony

But, Mr. President, in order that I might satisfy my own mind absolutely on the subject, I have gone to the trouble to gather information on both sides of the question from every available source. I have visited nearly all the schools of importance both in England and America. I have letters gathered by myself and others on the subject from the leading men in education in the English-speaking world. The advice given by these men is almost in unison. I hold in my hand a number of letters from and records of personal interviews with about forty such men. What do they say? Every president of a university says "Consolidate your institutions." Every dean of an agricultural college in a university says, "Keep your institutions together." More than half the men who are working in separate institutions also advise union. Dr. Robertson strongly advises union for the reason previously stated. Dr. Creelman, of Guelph, advises us to start with a strong agricultural faculty and keep together for a time at least. The only states which advise separation are the smaller ones, Iowa excepted.

Mr. Wallace's Opinion

To find out the true state of affairs, I wrote to Mr. Henry Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer, a gentleman known to many of you here by his paper. He is one of the leading exponents of agriculture in that state. I had known him personally and knew he was once opposed to union but I knew I would get an unbiased judgment. He writes me as follows: "I think if you will make a careful investigation you will find that, generally speaking, the agricultural colleges that are connected with the universities are doing the best work."

"Magnificent work is being done at Cornell, Madison, at Urbana, at Lincoln, and Missouri. I do not know one agricultural college separate from a university that is doing as thorough work as the first three I have mentioned, etc."

Dean Woods of Cambridge

I have a letter from Dean Woods of the University of Cambridge, England. Dean Woods has worked in both types of institutions. He is most emphatic in his statements. When I was in Cambridge eighteen years ago as a student, no one would have dreamed of an agricultural college in that ancient seat of learning. Ten years ago an agricultural department was organized. In that ten years he has done more for agriculture than all the small colleges in a generation. Today they are spending half a million dollars erecting on the university

KAUFFMAN IS NO CHAMPION

His Recent Fight With Philadelphia Jack O'Brien Demonstrates he will Never be a Top Notcher

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—That Al Kaufman is not destined to become the world's champion is vouched for today by every fight fan who last night saw him defeat Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, in six rounds of gory fighting before the National A. C. Kaufman cannot hit hard enough; he is not clever enough; he does not know enough about the fine points of the game.

Kaufman beat O'Brien—beat him badly. But he couldn't get enough steam behind one of his blows to put out the Philadelphia dancing master. He tried hard, for he remembered the fatal seventeenth round out on the coast, when O'Brien put him out, and he wanted revenge. But though young was the victor, youth couldn't make O'Brien take the count.

It was a rattling good fight, for what O'Brien lacked in strength he made up in agility and clever boxing. His hands showed the effects of 500 fights. His knuckles were swollen so that a look of pain came over his face every time he essayed to land a crushing blow on Kaufman. He hit the Californian at will, but the blows only made the "Prisco boy" smile. His chin was adamant.

The men presented a strange contrast as they entered the ring. Kaufman, tall, muscular, unmarked, round muscled, towered over the flabby, battle-marked O'Brien.

The first round ended with Kaufman forcing things. The Californian rushed with a will, taking punishment, but giving more. In the second he went after the Quaker with a vengeance, and kept O'Brien ducking to cover. O'Brien seemed to have lost his sense of direction and distance. Straight from the shoulder he would aim a blow, and Kaufman would not move, but the blow rarely landed.

In the third O'Brien rallied, and rushed things, swaying Kaufman's head from right to left. It was a great rally, but it couldn't save O'Brien. In the fourth round Kaufman danced up and sent O'Brien to the mat, but Jack came up like a Jack-in-the-box, but couldn't make a blow stick, while Kaufman bored in with rights and lefts, and kept O'Brien on the run. In the fifth and sixth Kaufman forced matters though a little wild at times. He tried hard to put O'Brien out, but the force wasn't there. O'Brien rushed into a clinch whenever he was in danger.

There is considerable talk today of matching the men for a distance. O'Brien today declared he was not in good physical condition, while Kaufman declared he was sure he could put the Philadelphia out in a 30-round affair.

Strathcona to Play Calgary.

A game of hockey between the St. Mary's team of Calgary and the Strathcona team will be held in the Strathcona skating rink at nine o'clock on Saturday night.

YELLOW PERIL IN BASEBALL

Chinese is Appointed Assistant Manager of Howard Second Team—In Two Years he will be Team Manager

The yellow peril is creeping into baseball. Yoneo Arai, a sophomore at Harvard, has been appointed second assistant manager of the varsity baseball team. That means that he will be first assistant to a junior and manager in his second year. This is the first time in Harvard that a Chinese has been in line for management of any varsity sports team. There are Chinese at Harvard who are taking part in sports, notably track athletics and soccer. When the Wisconsin baseball team made its trip to Japan last year, playing against Koto and Waseda Universities, Shibata, a Japanese student at Wisconsin, acted as manager of the players.

HARRY SMITH IS RELEASED

Two Years Ago a Star, Now a Has-Been—Was Once the Best Shot in Hockey

Halifax, Ont., Jan. 22.—Harry Smith, the famous centre man and one time recognized as the best shot in hockey, who has been playing for two years on the Halifax team, was released yesterday. Harry was captain of the minor seven, but of all the practices held, only got out to a few of them. In the Cobalt-Halifax game, Tuesday, he did not show up well and was the weakest man on the team not having his old time shot or form. Time and time again he missed a shot or over-skated the puck in front of the goal. Halifax has two utility men, and Nick Bawli, the Ottawa football back, will be played at rover and Dey moved to centre for Saturday's game with the Wanderers. Otherwise the line will not be changed. All the team now requires is another forward to be carried along as a utility man. Halifax players leave on Sunday for a two week's trip to eastern points to play scheduled games with Renfrew, Ottawa, Wanderers, Canadiens, and Shamrocks. Smith may jump to Fort William again.

WOULDN'T HEAR ABOUT THIS

Last night in the Thistle rink the Strathcona druggists returned with interest the defeat recently handed them by the Edmonton dope dealers, the final count being 3 to 1 after a strenuous contest. Stewart, who played point for the Edmonton bunch on their visit here, was on the Strathcona line last night, and his ability as a combination breaker turned the tide of victory. After the game the medicine men were entertained to a sumptuous dinner in Harry's Cafe and with over thirty guests present, the most enjoyable end of the evening was spent over the festive board.

KLING WISHES TO RETURN

Former World-Champion Catcher Has a Longing to Don the Mask and Pad Again

Johnny Kling, the greatest catcher of recent years, is showing a hankering to return to the fold. Unlike Mike Donlin Kling recognizes the fact that absence from the game is affecting his playing ability, and he desires to get back into major league ball. It is too late. It appears the knowledge that Jimmie Archer is filling the vacancy behind the bat in good style may have something to do with Kling's change of mind. John had the idea, when he retired that no man could ever fill his shoes. Last year Jimmie Archer, the Toronto boy, made Chicago fans forget that there ever was a Johnny Kling.

And take Mike Donlin. He captured the New York Giants when they lost the pennant by an eyelash. Mike's name was on every tongue. His terrible hitting drove in numerous runs, and his fielding was a thing of beauty and a joy forever. But Donlin got the theatrical bit in his bonnet and upon the stage would go. He made an instantaneous hit in vaudeville, by virtue of his baseball reputation and the clever work of his wife, Mabel Hite. Mike's doings on the diamond were then of world wide repute and fans crowded into the theatre to see the hero of a thousand games shake his foot and "sue" home. Last year Mike remained out of the baseball world and it is our one best bet that vaudeville managers are not falling over one another to sign up his act. Without his baseball reputation, he is valueless as a box office asset; the fans soon forget past performances.

So it is extremely probable that Mike Donlin and Johnny Kling will be hanging around their respective managers, about the time the spring training trip begins, asking for another chance. Organized ball has killed the outlaws, and if a man won't come to terms with the team which holds his contract, he might as well retire.

JOE HALL NOW AN OUTLAW

His Assault on Rod Kennedy Last Saturday Brings Him a Week's Sentence

Montreal, Jan. 25.—Joe Hall, the ex-Brandon player, now with the Shamrocks, was suspended by the National Hockey Association today. His suspension is dated to Sunday next, when the league will hold another meeting to decide the case. Hall in the Shamrock-Renfrew game last Saturday, after a run in with Frank Patrick of Renfrew, struck the judge of play, Rod Kennedy. The referee in his report stated that Hall's attack on Kennedy, in his opinion, was not intentional, and recommended lenient action. However, the league decided that it must make a stand for clean hockey, and Hall was suspended. As a result, he was not able to play with Shamrocks against Halifax tonight, and will not be able to play against Renfrew when Renfrew next plays on Friday. The league deferred the decision on the tie game between Shamrocks and Renfrew.

There is a rumor that Sammy Strang of Baltimore, may sign up with the Chattanooga team. Strang is very fast, having the immense total of two stolen bases in last year's Eastern League averages.

Bob Spade is getting enough advertising out of the alleged deal between the Chicago and Cincinnati clubs to put him in driving card on the stage. But Bob prefers the ponies to the brokers.—C. H. Zuber, in the Cincinnati Times-Star.

From present appearances, Clell Ball, the triple-play hero, of the Cleveland Naps is due for the season in the Southern League. Wonder where Dinky McGuire, the double-play hero of the Edmonton team will spend his summer months? Our office boy suggests in a canning factory.

THAT SECOND CUP GAME

Extracts Culled From the Ottawa Free Press and Journal Commenting on the Encounter

So confident were the Edmonton hockey team of winning the Stanley Cup from the Ottawas, that every morning for the past week they have been in town, the team inspected the cup at Rosenthal's and discussed freight charges and how to get it home.

After last night's exhibition, the small boy recommended that the team put that Teddy Bear Mascot into the box that had been brought along for the Stanley Cup, and take the gay creature back to the west.

Frank Patrick admitted Ottawa was the better of the two teams. So did big brother Lester. Fred Taylor did not think it was much of a game, but thought Ottawa had it all over the westerners.

The fastest man on the ice last night was Fred Whitcroft, who has signed with Renfrew for the rest of the season. Whitcroft played a wonderful game for the Honeycombers, and with the exception of Bonhag, was the only man on the team who showed real Stanley Cup form.

Result on the Series
Score: Ottawa, 21; Edmonton 11.
Total attendance—$300.
Edmonton receipts (gross)—$5000.
Rink's share, (40 per cent)—$2000.
Referee's expenses—$60.
Other expenses (official)—$400.
Each Club's share—$1,250.

Just before half-time Miller rammed Freddie Lake into the boards very hard and Wabli immediately skated across the ice and cut Miller's feet from under him. Marty's motto appears to be: "Can't you see my mates up while I'm around."

The president of the Ottawa hockey club was endeavoring to sandwich in little business between hockey matters yesterday when the phone tinkled.

"Is that you, Mr. McGee?" queried a youngster's voice.

And without further introduction when the reply was given in the affirmative, the questioning went on: "Well, say, I want to get Marty Wabli's stick and my brother wants LeSueur's, the one with the tape around it. Will you ask them for us? 'Cause I don't know Marty only to see him. We'd be awful obliged." "That's easy," answered the president. "Will I have them for you Friday morning?" "And now he's dopping it out."

Fred Whitcroft nosed ahead of Hay Miller in the point-to-point race in the second game. The Edmonton roster has added considerable to its reputation in the past week by his clean, scientific, and "all the time" hockey. Miller was not nearly so prominent as Whitcroft during the series. If the fans have their way Fred would be the man for eastern teams.

And the wise one's who didn't bet a sou on the Edmonton series are now gloating—"I told you so!"

In the series just over Edmonton may not have had as many supporters as the Ottawa team, but those that were at the ringside made no small effort to keep the big crowd aware of the fact that the challengers were very much in evidence.

Happy days, as the westerners said when they lined up at the refreshment emporium after the struggle, and here's hoping again that the Honeycombers' jaunt through life will meet with less disappointment than in their initial venture after the Cup. Certainly they will meet their respective fortunes with a stiff upper lip. Of course the brides felt keenly, but they weren't going to show it to the Ottawa crowd. Not much.

Mrs. Jack Winchester faces the job from the rosters on the way out of the rink as resolutely as her captain husband faced "the drives from the Ottawa sticks." She clung to the Teddy Bear mascot in his yellow and

A TEST FOR UMPIRES

They are to Undergo a Weeding-Out in the American Association Just Like the Ordinary Players

Umpires in the American Association must get into shape just like the players. President-elect Chivington has signed eight knights of the indicator and the six showing the best form will be retained. Rather a novel idea, this. How would it be for the Western Canada League to sign up about forty and then we would perhaps get four men who could make some kind of a pretense at umpiring a game.

Last year's officials, with the single solitary exception of Vose, were screams, and their incompetency was a large factor in the meagre attendance at the local ball park.

JOHNSON IS A CLEVER PITCHER

May Turn Out One of the Best Mound Artists in the American League This Season

Walter Johnson, the clever young pitcher of the Washington Senators, was unearthed in the summer of '07, by Joe Cantillon, and has been creating sensations ever since. He started pitching for Tacoma at an early age but was transferred to Weiser of the Idaho state league. He pitched two games for that club winning nine. Returning to California the following winter he offered his services to Los Angeles, but they turned him down. Returning to Weiser, Johnson had a successful season winning 13 of the 15 games in which he pitched. For 85 consecutive innings he held his opponents without a run, averaging 14 strikeouts per game and allowing only 25 hits in 108 innings, which is some record.

Since being with Washington, he has performed in excellent fashion and is reckoned as being Jimmy McAllester's most valuable asset for 1910.

SPARKLETS

Glints From the Sporting Anvil

The St. Marys hockey club has arranged to take a trip to Edmonton to play the Deacons their return match on Friday. The Saints will take along a strong team and expect to win, although playing away from home.—Calgary Albertan.

Bonhag is not expected to do better than 14-15 in his race with Jack Tait. Bonhag's record of 14-34 was made on an Indian track, and he was banked all the way around, and besides he used spikes.

Martin J. Sheridan will compete at San Francisco in the all-round championship events in July and an effort will be made to have him meet the Gills' brothers, at Vancouver, the same month.

Billy Sherring has an idea that Jack Tait will trim George Bonhag at Buffalo a week from Saturday, providing Bonhag does not run the three miles in less than 14-30. It will be a pretty race anyway, and a large delegation of Hamilton fans will take it in.

J. W. Mould, of Edmonton, with McGowan's rink, is an alderman of that city. He says Edmonton can beat Calgary even with weather for curlers.—Calgary Herald.

Two new pitchers have been secured by the Toronto ball club. Their contracts came to President McCallister.

black sweater and little moccasins. He verily snarled defiance.

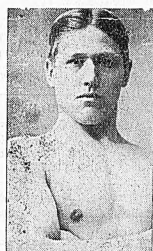

"He's all right, yes," he replied to the cheeky young man in the entrance who advised her to send the bear back to the woods.

"Well," he certainly did with his boots on, anyway," came the unabashed retort from the young fellow. And the cruel crowd laughed.

weight, of Saskatchewan and (Manitoba); Young Huber, Strathcona; Ike Weir, Saskatoon, and several wrestlers from Vegreville, whose names are not yet known here.

The exhibition will be clean and free from any objectionable features so that ladies may attend as well as gentlemen.

As an extra attraction, the Demon Saxon, has a standing offer of $25 to anybody either in the audience or entered in the tournament, whom he cannot throw in 15 minutes. There are several aspirants already for the money. Tonight, Frank Hubert is to take a chance on lasting fifteen minutes, while tomorrow Kenny Blachford will try to win the money by adding twenty-five dollars to his bank-roll.

Today morning, Manager Kelley has succeeded in signing Dudley A. Thompson, the New York amateur, everybody has been after, while Manager Fred Lake, of Boston, secured for Toronto William C. Corey, last year with Burlington in the Maine League. Lake says Corey is a likely, clean-cut youngster.

"Challenges are pouring in for the winner of the Longboat-Smallwood race that is to be held in Pittsburg on the 27th," says the Pittsburg Dispatch. Alf Shrubbs is the latest to ask for a race with the winner.

Some remarkable stories are told about J. Donaldson the latest sprinter of this who has come from Victoria, Cape Colony, and if the South African lives up to his reputation, he promises to set the athletic world by the ears. Donaldson is credited with a century in 9-9-16 seconds, 200 yards in 10-7-8 seconds, 400 yards in 4-3-5 seconds, and 600 yards in 1-10-5 seconds, while he has a 120-yard record of 11-5-16 seconds.

Williams "Ducky" Holmes played in the first game in which "Ty" Cobb, the great Detroit sicker, participated. Ty was the most scared boy in America that day and distinguished himself by sticking out four times. How things have changed lately!

Low McAllister will not coach the University of Michigan baseball team this year. McAllister has been in charge of Michigan's base ball since 1896, and it has interfered greatly with his duties as a member of the Buffalo Club.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—Premier Laurier moved in the Commons yesterday for a special committee to investigate the charges made by Hugh Lumsden, former chief engineer of the National some members of the engineering

the Opposition, insisted that the scope deal with the alleged over-classificaare too valuable to the Glants, to be

If you were a merchant, would you rather sell a thou-

Isn't it plain that in all such

The money cost of a journey was greater than that of a pre-

The "old ways" of doing things

It's not even CHEAPER to

The team will be the same as played against the northerners last week. If Bert Sparrow can get away, and with good ice the locals expect to win. The following players will be taken along:

Tansy, Walton, Walper, F. McHugh, A. McHugh, McKenzie, Green and Sparrow.

Never in Doubt—Hallebury
Sports Made a Clean-up

Cobalt, Jan. 26.—The Wanderers decisively defeated Cobalt here last night in the second game of their northern trip by 11 to 6. The halting score was 6 to 0 in favor of the Wanderers. The game belonged to the visitors from the start. They outplayed the home team at every point, and in no stage was the game in doubt. One of the goals scored by Cobalt should have been credited to Hearn, the puck striking his skate as glancing into the net on a pass from behind McMillan. The rink was packed to the doors. The showing of Cobalt was a distinct disappointment to the spectators, most of whom bet heavily on the result. During the day over $2000 was sent down from Hallebury to back the Wanderers and it was quickly swallowed up by the Cobalt crowd. The line-up was:

Sam Crane, the old ball player of late years known as a base ball writer for New York papers, who has been in Tucson, Ariz. for his health for several months, is so far improved that he will join the Giants at their training camp at Marlin, Texas, next month, and travel home with them early in April.

Three Professional ball players have been added to the Cincinnati police force, thus showing that a berth on the Cincinnati force is considered better than playing ball. They are Joe Schall, who has been engaged to play with Altoona this season, in the outfield. Cliff Johnson, a pitcher under contract with Macon, Ga., and Jack Hearn, outfielder with the Atlantas.

Matty McIntyre, the Tiger outfielder, is spending these winter mornings sitting on a rail at the Tampa race course, hearing the hoofbeats of his own thoroughbreds, and nervously working a stop watch for Matty is now a real owner. During the fall meeting at Windsor the hero of Staten Island purchased a thoroughbred—King's Guinea by name. When the thoroughbreds moved south for the winter racing Matty's nag was among those taking the rail for Dixie. It is not a slow one, this King's Guinea.

GREAT GATHERING AT BOARD

Successes of Other Years Repeated at Last Night's Banquet in the Separate
School Hall

The usual successful function attending the Burns anniversary supper in Edmonton was repeated in the Separate School Hall last evening under the auspices of the Caledonian Society. President McPherson opened proceedings with an address of welcome, accompanied by frequent scraps on the bagpipes. He paid a tribute to the Scottish bard, saying that whatever one's nation he would always find something in the works of Burns to approve of. The toast list followed with a loyal health to His Majesty the King.

In reply to the toast of "The Immortal Memory," Jos. Adair said he honored Burns for reasons other than those for which they honored Scott and other great poets.

"Burns gave something more than these," said Mr. Adair. "He was the forerunner of great ideals. His was a prophetic and deep religious fervor. He was a man of real religion, who never said anything slightly of religion."

Mr. Adair went on to say that good art was that by which the artist touches the finer qualities in mankind, and that in the verses of Burns, good art predominated. Burns had real sympathy. He declared that the universe was good. He had faith in "the triumph of the good."

The revelation of the Victorian era was clearly seen by Burns, before the scientists say. He said that the time would come when "man to man, the whole world o'er, would be brethren a' for a' that."

Hon. C. W. Cross replied to the toast, "Alberta, Our Government and Legislature." He said that the story of the political life of the Dominion could not have been told if the history of many Scots had not been told. He referred to the large number of people coming to Canada with no idea of the principles of self-government, but said they would soon learn as there was only one class in Canada—the governing class.

In conclusion, he declared that he looked forward this year to the great development of Edmonton and the province.

Other toasts were, "The Home Land," responded to by Dr. Fory; "Canada, the Land We Live in," responded to by John A. McDougall, M. P., who apologized for the absence of Hon. Duncan Marshall. Ex-President Rea replied to the toast, "Scotsmen in Canada," and Ald. Armstrong and Commissioner Dutchart to the toast, "Our City."

"The Sister Societies" brought representatives of the Sons of England and the Irish Association to their feet with suitable replies. George Gordon of Ponoka delicately handled the toast, "The Lassies, O'."

Vocal selections were given by the quartette composed of Messrs. McIsaac, Hendra, Casely and McLeod, who also sang individual solos very acceptably. W. Wallace Howe recited "Tam O'Shanter," and W. Pirie "Hurrah for the Highlands." Pipe-Major Laling and Piper Craig furnished the bagpipe selections.

Club, giving President John I. Taylor a farm for his green material on the Boston Club when his squad is cut to 35. It is understood that the deal is now pending and that Taylor has sent word that he is ready to close for $12,000, providing the Sacramento Club will move its grounds.

It is understood that if a deal could be made McGraw would like to get hold of Keeler. They are old friends, but it is a question whether the Highlanders' owner would be willing to allow Keeler to go to the rival club at the polo grounds. Dahlen, the Brooklyns manager, would also give to have Keeler, it is said, but if waivers on the popular right fielder should be requested, it is probable that some other American League club would put in a claim for him.

Thodore Breitenstein, the former St. Louis and Cincinnati pitcher, who has been playing in the Southern League for seven years, will retire to enter the field as an umpire. He has been promised a position on President Kavanaugh's staff.

Rev. Dr. Chown's Address in Mc-Dougall Church on Moral Reform

PROBLEMS OF GOVERNMENT

Reforms in Laws Relating to Prisons,
Race Track Betting, Cigarette
Smoking and Crime

The address of Rev. Dr. Chown, general secretary of the Temperance and Moral Reform League, which was delivered in McDougall Methodist Church last evening, was not largely attended. Those who did turn out were rewarded by hearing an eloquent speaker, a man who by his line of thought could not but convince even the most hardened anti-reformer that the Moral Reform League, as a body, was fighting the battle of Christianity.

Rev. Dr. Hunter as the chairman gave a brief sketch of Dr. Chown's career, eulogizing him as a clever man and earnest worker.

Dr. Chown's subject was "Some problems of Government. He referred to the last local option campaign in Ontario, where out of 161 battles, 141 victories were won on a straight majority. To show the enthusiasm of the workers, the speaker cited the case of one who spoke at five meetings, in the last twenty-four hours of the campaign. The question was often asked, "Does Local Option affect the Growth of a city?" The answer was emphatically "No."

Midland is said to be more prosperous with local option than ever before. Laboring men are saving their money and putting it into real estate with the result that in two years the assessment of Midland has increased $750,000. Testimonials have been received from all sources.

"Another argument used by the liquor influences is, 'If you shut up the saloons, the farmers will not come to your town and trade will suffer.' In Ingersoll and Tilsonburg during the recent campaign, the farmers held a meeting and said this was an insult to them as a body, and passed a resolution that in case only one town went dry they would take all their produce into its markets.

Sympathy for Prison Reform

Dr. Chown spoke at length on this important question. Men were punished for the sake of the protection of society when they should be punished for their own good. Prisoners were men of like passions as ourselves and should be studied to make a constructive instead of a destructive force. Dr. Smith, of Toronto, said that $100,000 had been wasted on gaols which could have been invested in farms to better advantage. There was no doubt crime should be punished but with a view to reformation. The Juvenile Delinquents Act and the Neglected Children's Act have been great factors in reducing crime among the young.

Dr. Chown thought that a freer use of parole would have a tendency to lessen crime. Prisoners should be put under a board consisting of the warder, physician and chaplain, who would study each prisoner, send him out on trial and show interest in him. If he did not make good after a reasonable opportunity, he should go back to prison.

In Regard to Drunkards

"Why shouldn't drunkards be aided?" asked Dr. Chown. "If we make them so by the authority of the law, we must cure them by the same authority." Dr. Chown told of a novel method of curing inebriates. They were put in a hot air chamber with a temperature of from 200 to 220 degrees and the taint and appetite for liquor is boiled out of them. Hot water baths are also being used with great effect on the insane, tending to soothe their ravings and being a great improvement over the cruel straight jacket.

Dominion Problems

Opium used to be manufactured in Canada and smuggled to China, but a universal law has been passed prohibiting its manufacture in nearly every country. India, the home of the poppy, was the only country that refused to adhere to this and even the Chinese themselves were asking to have it kept away from them.

grounds, in close proximity to the great Cavendish laboratories, a splendid agricultural building.

Prof. Woods gave three reasons why he preferred the college in the university. These sum up pretty well the reasons in all the correspondence:

1. Economy. Many of the departments are common to other university faculties. For example: Chemistry, Physics, Biology, English, Mathematics, Bacteriology, Shopwork, and Special Engineering. Common laboratories can be used and common equipment also.

2. Efficiency. The best men in agriculture are naturally gravitating towards the universities. Besides this, it is possible to secure, hourly if necessary, advice and co-operation with specialists in every department of science. Prof. Woods stated to me personally that he regarded constant advice of the university men in such subjects as chemistry, physics, biology and bacteriology as of first class importance. The result was constant stimulation and better work.

3. Social reasons. "It is a good theory," say all these men in effect, "for students of all departments to mingle together." In Wisconsin this is regarded as of special importance. The good fellowship and respect for each other's calling which springs from common boyhood makes for good will all through life. I do not find a single university where union exists, a symptom of that lack of respect for agriculture which is so common in separate institutions. The co-operation of the whole state in building up a separate institution which is a constant source of pride is only secured by union.

4. Educational. The value of unity all recognize on the grounds already stated to you.

Some Objections

But, Mr. President, I must ask your indulgence, while I answer a couple of objections. It has been urged by some that agricultural students will not attend a college in the university. May I be permitted to ask who the university students are? I imagine seventy-five per cent. of the University students in Canada come from the homes of working men and the farmers. In the university agricultural students will meet men like themselves from the farm and the workshop. It is the glory of our modern economic institutions that this is the case. From the home of the poor and the humble is coming a constant stream of men to be the future leaders of the people from whom they have sprung.

The best answer to the objection is a few figures. I will show how the agricultural colleges in the universities have grown. In Wisconsin, for example, between the years 1890 and 1909 the agricultural students in yearly attendance increased thirty fold. While students in arts and engineering only increased four and eight fold respectively. Between the years 1900 and 1909 the students in Law decreased by one third.

In Illinois the agricultural students in the same time multiplied twenty times, arts students nine times, civil engineering four times, while between the years 1900 and 1909 medical students decreased one fifth.

Cornell, Minnesota and California showed similar growth.

Further, one of the leading educationalists in the United States has made a careful study of a number of agricultural students in the various states. He has taken six of the leading states with colleges in the university and six played them separated. He has shown that the percentage of agricultural students to the whole student body in the state is on the average six per cent more in the former group than in the latter. These figures were published a year ago and as far as I know have not been disputed.

In this connection, Mr. President there is another fact which must not be overlooked, viz.: that from the agricultural colleges in the University there is a steady flow of men from other departments of the university into the agricultural colleges.

One example will suffice. When I was in Cambridge, England, last summer, I visited the farm with Dean Woods. I met a class of about twenty men at work on the farm. I asked who the men were. I was told that the whole twenty-five were men who had completed a university course in natural science and when they had finished their degree course the presence of the agricultural college in the university attracted them with the result that they were now devoting themselves to the study of agriculture with the object of being experts and teachers. Dean Russell, of Wisconsin, assured me that the agricultural classes were constantly being recruited in the same way at that university.

But, Mr. President, I must conclude with a word: It is my aim and that of the university senate to make our University of the greatest possible service to the state. We do not believe that it is fair to you or in your best interests that your sons should be educated by themselves in such a way that many of the greatest opportunities of life should be a closed book to them. Our aim is to make the university of service to the whole educational character both in the spreading abroad of knowledge in the land and in training teachers for the carrying out of our educational scheme; it must ultimately train men in a group of professional schools for places of trust and responsibility; it must lend its strength to the solution of many scientific and economic problems which will arise in the future as the province develops and its resources become better known; but I can assure you that not least among the joys which the future has in store for us is that it is to be part of our task to lighten the burden of your toil and to assist you in obtaining the maximum of material reward for your life of labor.

A fatal accident occurred in the shaft operated by the Canadian Coal Consolidated Co., at Frank last week. Eli Bergnes who was employed as a driver was found dead between a mine car and a coal chute. It is not known exactly how the accident happened. WHY CLOVER BAR HAS GOOD ROADS.

Editor Capital: In a recent issue of The Capital, I read a statement said to have been made by Mr. Wm. Lang of Strathcona, to the effect that the Clover Bar district is being unduly favored by the provincial government, though Mr. Lang says Clover Bar never pays more than $100 per quarter-section for road purposes. Following is a copy of a notice of assessment sent out in Clover Bar in the past four years:

The Local Improvement Act, District No. 27R4.

Notice of Assessment.

Take notice that you have been assessed under the provisions of The Local Improvement Act for the undementioned lands in the above District, and that taxes are now due and payable to the undersigned as follows:

Part of Section	N.E.¼
Section	11
Township	53
Range	23
Meridian	4
Acres	160
Rate of Assess. per acre	45¢
Am't. Taxes for current year	$74.00

Total amount due

Dated at Agricola this 4th day of March, 1909.

T. H. OTTERWELL.

Sec.-Treasurer Dist. 27, R4.
P. O. Agricola.

Mr. Lang is said to have stated further that Clover Bar could always get money, but there was never a cent for Strathcona. Personally I am very sorry we are not as fortunate as "Scotty" represents us. In 1910 we had $908.00 to expend on roads in excess of taxes levied, but it did not come from the government. Every dollar of it was subscribed by the farmers of Clover Bar and the settlements to the east.

I might add that every dollar of this sum was spent improving the boundary line between the Clover Bar and Strathcona districts, to the maintenance of which Mr. Lang pays little or no attention.

This is one of the ways in which Clover Bar managed to secure the good roads about which Mr. Lang complains; another is that the settlers here make it a practice to donate a day or two of work rather than leave a job half done; still another secret of their success lies in the fact that they don't try to build roads with their mouths.

Have you sold anything through a classified ad. lately? Haven't you GOT anything to sell?

Mr. Edison Says:

"I Want to see a Phonograph in Every Home."

The Phonograph is the result of years of experiment; it is Mr. Edison's pet and hobby. He realizes fully its value as an entertainer and educator; for the phonograph brings the pleasure of the city right to the village and the farm home. Now, the new Fireside Edison Phonograph of our No. 27, 1910 Model, is the latest and greatest improved talking machine made by this great inventor.

Everybody should hear it; everybody must hear it. If you have only heard other talking machines before, you cannot imagine what beautiful music you can get from the outfit No. 27. This new machine is just out and has never been heard around the country. We want to convince you, we want to prove to you that this outfit is far, far superior to anything ever heard before. Don't miss this wonderful liberal offer.

LIBRARY SITE UP TO PEOPLE

meeting the previous evening came up for the first reading and was provisionally passed.

Quietus on Barbers' Trouble

A second bylaw which lay on the table to be read, also met a storm of opposition, but did not weather it so well. This was in reference to the closing of barber shops in the city at 7 o'clock p.m., a matter which the council had acceded to at the previous meeting, after the reading of a very voluminous and pathetic petition from Jasper avenue barbers. When the bylaw was given a first reading a motion was made that it be laid on the table for one year. That meant it was "killed."

The opposition which effected the demise of the bylaw came from Ald. McInnis who was absent at the previous meeting, and from the proprietors of small barber shops in the outskirts of the city. The latter presented a strong petition claiming that the council could not determine their hours of labor. Several of the petitioners were present and in addressing the council said that the petition presented at the previous meeting was not known to them or it would have been opposed at the time it was presented. They claimed that statements in it were false and that it was simply a scheme to compel the small shops to get into the barber's union or get out of business.

Dr. McInnis said that it was not within the rights of a city council to prevent a man working during legitimate hours if he choose to. The council could not dictate in this matter.

The city solicitor reported that a similar by-law had failed to be enforced in other cities.

Parks in Prospect

The parks committee composed of Chairman Ald. Lundy and Aldermen Hyndman and Millar reported as follows:

1. After carefully going into the question of the east end park improvements, we recommend that a rider be attached to the bylaw granting the $75,000 to the exhibition association whereby they agree this year to level and put in suitable condition for athletic sports such as baseball, lacrosse, football, cricket, etc., at least twenty acres of ground. To open and grade suitable drives and walks and keep same in repair. Underbrush and clean up all that portion of park not used for exhibition purposes. Erect swings, seats, tables, etc., and keep same in repair.

2. That a written agreement be obtained by the city commissioners from the Hospital Association, whereby the property now used as a city hospital site be transferred to the city as soon as the city hospital is finished. (This agreement to state definite price.)

3. That a written agreement be obtained from the Edmonton school board whereby the present high school site shall be transferred to the city as soon as the new high school is finished. This agreement to state definite price. This ground to be used for park purposes, and if advisable the school building to be remodelled and used as a museum until such time as the city deems it advisable to erect a better and more modern structure.

4. That a suitable piece of ground be selected for the establishing of a permanent nursery. In the minds of your committee this is a very important matter and should receive careful and prompt attention so that the early spring will see ten acres at least put in proper condition for this purpose.

5. Re ground on face of hill along College avenue: Your committee expect to be able to report that a definite price has been obtained on this piece of land by next meeting.

The report was laid on the table.

Industrial Committee.

Pursuant to the notice of motion given at a previous meeting, Ald. Hyndman addressed the council as the need of an industrial committee in addition to the other committees of the council. His idea was that this committee should do all in its power to encourage the establishment and retention of industries in the city. Inducements had been held out to railways to come to Edmonton, so they should not an endeavor be made to get factories as well. Edmonton might be a distributing point and a manufacturing as well as a wholesale centre.

"I have been told that I am encroaching on the Board of Trade," said Ald. Hyndman. "A well-defined policy in regard to industries is what is wanted, and a committee of the city council, which has power to do more in this line than the Board of Trade. I would like to see the committee act in conjunction with the Board of Trade."

Ald. Hyndman drew attention to the surplus power, water, light, that the city might dispose of. He also mentioned the matter of fixed assessment for industrial concerns. Under this principle manufacturers would know for a period of years at least what their assessment would be.

A committee composed of Aldermen Hyndman, Lundy, McInnis and Mould was appointed by the council to work along the lines suggested.

Miscellaneous.

Dr. Whitelaw, medical health officer, informed the council that two vacancies existed on the Health Board. The council will ask the Medical Association of the city to recommend the names of two medical men to fill the vacancies.

The commissioners recommended to the provision of power at Big Island crator plant be investigated, and that a cement jacket for the boiler be supplied at a cost of $120. The matter was referred to the Public Works committee.

A communication was read from the Department of the Interior stating that the matter of a city charter for the production of power a Big Island on the Athabasca River was before the attention of the department and a further reply would be received shortly.

Acting City Engineer Latourne reported that five miles of sewer pipes would meet the requirements of the city this year. Last year 7.7 miles were laid down and 9.15 the year 1908. His preference was the vitrified pipe, but he had no reason for stating that cement pipe if properly made would not be acceptable.

A by-law providing $75,000 for the construction of suitable Exhibition Grounds in the east end, by the Exhibition Association, was provisionally passed.

Ald. Lundy moved that the license fee for detectives be made $10, with a $50 bond instead of $25. The purpose was to insure responsible people engaging in the detective business in the city.

Acting City Engineer Latourne wrote to the council requesting that the matter of his appointment as city engineer be held over until the return of the mayor.

The secretary of the Public School Board forwarded a report from the building and grounds committee that the High School grounds would not be sold at present but that the city council would have the first chance to purchase it.

Acting Mayor Armstrong occupied the chair and there was a bare quorum of members consisting of Ald. McInnis, Hyndman, Millar and Lundy.

THE BASIS OF CITIZENSHIP

Canada was formerly 318 million annually but by reason of an act prohibiting the sale to all boys under 16 years of age, recent returns show a diminution of 50 millions. Dr. Chown gave an instance of the late Mr. Harriman, who said he would rather have a lunatic take his trains out than a cigarette smoker.

Of course there are some things you need more than money—or you wouldn't spend any money. When you have some things which you need LESS than money, try a for sale ad.
